Helping Hands Abstract

Helping hand is an online charity management system where the donors, beneficiaries and volunteers can use the service of the system to raise funds, find the needy people and donate to whom are really in need. Helping hand is a non-profitable organization. The donation can be made to a single person or to a charitable organisation like orphanage, old age homes etc, after a thorough verification by the volunteers of Helping Hand. There are basically three types of users. They are admin, volunteers and beneficiaries.

The website displays the information of different fund-raising schemes of different areas like education, marriage, health care services, retirement living, etc. The donors can select any of the schemes, which they are willing to donate and go on with further procedure of payments. The authorities (admin) of the website are responsible to provide the donors with the necessary information to prove the genuinity of the schemes. This information can be details of person or charitable trust, their location and documents signed by the government organisations. The admin posts different schemes and other requests by the beneficiaries to the website.

The volunteers of helping hands has a great responsibility. When the website is notified with request from beneficiaries, it is volunteers who go and check for the genuinity of the case and provide the necessary documents to admin to get approved. The volunteers are assigned in different locations. The notification goes only to the nearest volunteer of the beneficiaries. The volunteers also provide pick and drop services for the donor and beneficiaries, as any types of donations are accepted (food, clothes, etc). Again, this is a location-based service.

The beneficiary registration can be made by a single person for himself or for anyone else. The registration can also be made by a charitable trust. The request for donation is provided with sufficient information and is send to the nearest volunteers.

The people who wants to be a part of charity and willing to donate can register as a donor. They can go through the different schemes and other posts. They can select any schemes and request for genuinity details. The donations can be made by cash as online payments or it can be like food, clothes or other necessities.
